

Making Blue Cross Blue Shield Global

Making sure international needs are covered makes a world of difference.

Sometimes international needs are not evident or front of mind, especially when the conversation is about healthcare. Ask these questions to see whether a group would be best suited for the Blue Cross Blue Shield Global plans offered by GeoBlue.

Does the group have...

- people assigned to work in other countries?
- employees, independent contractors or important visitors coming into the U.S. for short or longer periods?
- any overseas subsidiaries or operations?

Does the group have questions...

- about emerging trends in international healthcare or other complex global healthcare issues?
- about visa and immigration issues and/or visa letter issuance?
- about what is considered standard care outside the U.S. compared to the U.S.?

Does the group have...

- travelers they'd like to cover simply, and comprehensively from prenatal care, basic colds, and routine care to the unexpected?
- employees with chronic health concerns who need to travel for their work?
- employees that need Medical Evacuation and Repatriation of Mortal Remains coverage, if the unimaginable happens?
- activity in markets such as the UAE, Saudi Arabia, or Australia where there are compulsory health coverages?
- employees that may need to be evacuated due to a political emergency or natural disaster?

Do their employees expect...

- immediate benefit verification 24/7/365?
- access to medical evacuation expertise 24/7/365, with direct payment?

Do their employees expect...

- direct payment for outpatient services, to avoid paying upfront for care?
- cash advances to a hospital prior to admission, to avoid being denied treatment?
- not to be asked to reimburse for direct payments made on their behalf?

Does the group have...

- coverage with another carrier for international needs?

If the answer is yes to any of the above questions, your group may need more than their domestic health plan to meet their international needs.
